Illinois families work hard to provide the things their children need to grow and learn. But as private health insurance has become less available and more expensive, many Illinois parents have struggled to find affordable coverage.

Illinois' All Kids health insurance program currently offers coverage for all uninsured children. All Kids really is for all kids, and 1.6 million children across the state use it to get the checkups they need to stay healthy and see the doctor when they get sick. For many families, for example, a family of three with monthly income less than $2,289, there are no premiums. Families with higher incomes pay affordable premiums, as low as $15 per month.
